

The Heads Up

Eddy The Explorer Requests Help!

On Thursday 21st and Friday 22nd March 2013 we held our Science Days. On Thursday all of the children took part in 'kitchen cupboard science' experiencing some fantastic experiments using basic house holds products. Experiments included mentos rockets, invisible ink, ice cream making and the balloon challenge to see if you could insert a skewer through a balloon without popping it....

Eddy the Explorer visited us on Thursday and set the children a challenge to help him pack for his adventure around the world. Each year group were given a different country to investigate and a different piece of equipment to design. The challenges included to test if clothing was suitable for different weather conditions, investigate insulation for food containers, design and test materials to make a suitable shelter and vehicle. Eddy then came back on Friday to collect his equipment ready for his trip. We certainly had an exciting end to term.

Running for Water!

Jamie and Rosie's Daddy is running the London Marathon on Sunday 21 April, and raising money for WaterAid. The charity has a simple goal: to provide safe, clean water for everyone on the planet. Several of the charity's current projects are based in West Africa.

Bruce has been training over the winter and will be running 26.2 miles on the day. "It's going to be tough – until recently, I hadn't run since primary school!"

WaterAid says: "Just £15 can provide someone with clean, safe water for life"

Please help if you can by sponsoring Bruce:
